It's my pleasure to recommend Dong Myeong Seo for a JD Edwards EnterpriseOne technical position. I have worked with Dong for nearly twelve years, and about three and a half years as his manager at Oracle Corporation in the United States. During this time, he supported EnterpriseOne Manufacturing, Distribution and Financials applications, as well as the technical side of the software. His skillset is unique, which enabled him to solve complex technical issues, as well as mentor and train his team members on understanding ERP functionality and architecture.

As a senior member of the JD Edwards support team, Dong demonstrated technical expertise by assisting client's with creating and troubleshooting custom solutions, advising the development team on how to correct both application and business function bugs, and sharing his knowledge via comprehensive case study knowledge documents. As a result, he methodically advanced his skills with EnterpriseOne Tools such as RDA/FDA, NER/C development, and OMW. In addition, he became the EnterpriseOne Business Services expert for his team, resulting in numerous training sessions to share his knowledge.

Dong has my highest recommendation for a JD Edwards EnterpriseOne technical support, development, or consulting position. He's not only technically adept, but also understands business processes and the solutions his clients need. His professional experience and personal qualities will make him a powerful asset for any firm!

Please feel free to contact me if you have any questions regarding his candidacy or past work.

Sincerely,

Cristie Haney
Sr. Manager, Customer Support
